

Dakota Surfaces Recommended Care and Maintenance

Countertops from Dakota Surfaces are extremely durable and difficult to stain. With minimal effort, they will remain beautiful for many years to come.

Cleaning should be done with a soft cloth or sponge and warm water with any type of mild soap. Common spray cleaners like Formula 409 are just fine, but probably unnecessary.

Abrasive cleansers should be avoided as they will dull the shine and leave the surface more susceptible to future stains. Other harsh chemical cleaners like bleach or trisodium phosphate could also cause noticeable blemishes, and are certainly overkill.

Things like red wine, vinegar, fruit juices, mustard, or other acidic liquids very rarely cause a problem when spilled, but should be wiped up fairly quickly.

Avoid putting very hot things on the countertop, like pots from the oven or stovetop. Using a trivet will insure that the resin that binds the aggregate together will never discolor or distort.

Cutting boards should always be used as well. Using a knife directly on the surface could leave marks in the resin, and will certainly ruin your knife.
